Dear

Prudential provides, or in the past did provide, group life insurance to you as a result of your employment relationship with Unisys. I am writing to let you know that a Prudential associate made a clerical error and inadvertently emailed a document containing information relating to your insurance relationship with us, including your name, address, date of birth, Social Security number, and salary information, to another individual at Unisys. This occurred on December 13, 2012. The recipient notified the Prudential associate immediately and notified Unisys management, which also notified Prudential. The recipient has deleted the document as well.

We have no reason to believe that the information about you has been used improperly or inappropriately or that you are at risk for identity theft because of this matter. Nonetheless, we are sending you this letter because we take our responsibility to safeguard personal information seriously, and we wanted to make you aware of the situation. We have made arrangements to provide you with a two-year complimentary membership in Equifax Credit Watch™ Gold with 3-in-1 Monitoring identity theft protection, a program that monitors your credit file and notifies you of certain activity. The enclosed sheet provides instructions for enrollment and should you choose to enroll, please use the following promotion code XXXXXXXXX, which will be valid for your use through May 31, 2013.

There are other steps you can take to further protect yourself against identity theft or other unauthorized use of personal information if you are concerned.

- We recommend that you remain vigilant and regularly review your account statements and credit reports for any unauthorized activity. Promptly report incidents of suspected identity theft or fraud to your local law enforcement agency, the Federal Trade Commission, your financial institution and to one of the three nationwide consumer reporting agencies listed below to have it removed from your credit file.

- You may contact the fraud departments of the three nationwide credit reporting agencies to discuss your options. You have the right to place a free 90-day fraud alert on your credit file. A fraud alert lets creditors know to contact you before opening new accounts. It also may delay your ability to obtain credit. To place a fraud alert on your credit report contact the three credit reporting agencies below. You may obtain additional information from these credit reporting agencies and the Federal Trade Commission regarding fraud alerts and security freezes.

- You can obtain a free copy of your credit report from each of the three nationwide consumer reporting agencies by calling 1-877-322-8228 or going online to www.annualcreditreport.com. Under federal law, you are entitled to one free copy of your credit report every 12 months from each of the three nationwide credit reporting agencies. You may want to obtain copies of your credit report to ensure the accuracy of the report information.

- To learn more about protecting yourself from identity theft and to report incidents of identity theft, you can visit the Federal Trade Commission's website at www.consumer.gov/idtheft, or www.ftc.gov/credit, or call 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338). You may also receive information from the Federal Trade Commission by writing to:
